Minutes, Notes, and Happening of last months’ meeting

Last month’s meeting was held on October 8th. We had 17 members and one guest in attendance. The guest, was Bob C’s. wife, there to watch her husband give the program.

Vice President Dave Wi., filling in for the President, called the meeting to order at 6:58.

There were no old copies of various coin magazines and papers to borrow this month.

A few interesting news items. A high grade 1793 Flowing Hair Large Cent, that was in the August ANA auction, and graded MS-69 by PCGS, that was mentioned in last month’s newsletter, sold for $481,750. The Royal Canadian Mint released a series of Superman coins, for the 75th anniversary of the creation of this superhero, which sold out very quickly. One of the five 1913 Liberty Nickels, known as the Olsen specimen, will be auctioned at the FUN show in January. Dan Carr, owner of the Moonlight Mint in Loveland Colorado, has begun striking modern versions of the Clark Gruber & Company gold coins, made from Colorado gold.

Dave reported on recent coin shows. Mark H. indicated that the Longmont show had low attendance and fewer dealers than usual. Mark attributed it to the recent flooding that occurred in Colorado and knowledge that many of the dealers were attending the Albuquerque show.

Dave Wi. reviewed the upcoming coin shows.

Dave reviewed the Door Prizes, Raffle, and Coin of the Month for this meeting.

Steve L. indicated that the new Ft. McHenry Quarter were now available. He did not have any dollars available.

A motion was made and seconded to approve the minutes that were in the Newsletter.

A motion was made and seconded to approve the Treasurers report. We currently have $2,890.50 in the club account. (Remember that any adult member may see the complete Treasurer’s report by simply requesting to view it at the meeting.)

New member Mike K. brought in some snacks again. Thanks Mike!

Last Months’ Show and Tell Recap

Steve L. – Provided some updated information on the 2014 Native American designs for the dollars. He indicated that there are 5-6 designs being considered.

Michael M. – Michael has been collecting ancients for quite some time. These are now becoming expensive so he started collecting first and last issues of US coins. In looking at the Peace dollars he found an interesting item relating to the 1926 Peace dollar. The motto “In God We Trust” has the word GOD much bolder than the other words. There has been much speculation on why this occurred, as the coin dies would have had to have been modified by hand to get the bolding of the word. One story involved the Scopes trial involving the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution in school and a theory that someone in the mint was politicizing his belief.

Mark H. – Had a $20 HAWAII Note. These were used during WWII in the Hawaiian islands in case of invasion by Japan.

This past October marked the last Denver Coin Expo that was run by Jerry Morgan. Jerry has held a Spring and Fall Denver Coin Expo at the Denver Stock Show complex for many years. I don't know the exact number, but it might be around 20 years, but I apologize if I am way off. This past year Jerry decided that it was time to get out of the Coin Show business and sold the Denver Coin Expo to Jaben Broach of CollecTons. I would like to thank Jerry for all the years of running the show and wish him the best in whatever he decides to do next.

It will be interesting to see how the Denver Coin Expo changes under the new ownership of Jaben. I have already heard about some of the coming changes. According to my sources the price of admission to the show will go from the $3.50 (or $3.00 with discount card) per show to $5.00 per show or $8.00, good for admission for the entire 3 days. I have also heard that you will now have to pay for daily parking. (Jerry had arranged for attendees to the show to get free parking.) That will mean that it will cost an attendee at least $10 just to attend for one day.

From the dealer side of things, the size of the show is supposed to double, with twice the number of tables available for dealers. This is great for collectors, as there are supposed to be more dealers from across the country coming to the show. But the down side is that the cost of these tables is increasing, and there will be a graduated fee structure with better location tables costing the dealers more. This could cause many of the local, smaller dealers to no longer be able to buy table space. So collectors may see many new faces but some of the old familiar faces may be gone.

Other new features of the show are a Live Auction and Educational Seminars. Both of these could draw more attendees, and hopefully attendees that are willing to spend some money, which I feel will be needed to keep some of these more distant dealers coming to the show. At many large shows dealers are there primarily to do dealer to dealer business with collector business being less important. This is why many dealers are gone by Saturday afternoon at the big ANA conventions and the weekend visitors complain about the lack of dealers at the show. Denver tends to be off the beaten path for many of the larger dealers, so that is why I feel that collector business will be an important aspect of a dealer coming from a long ways away to attend this show, but we will have to wait and see.

I hope the Denver Coin Expo continues to be successful under Jaben as the Colorado front range collectors need a show of this size to provide them with the wide variety of new material they are looking for to enhance their collections.
